

Darkness versus the Light

Enshroud the fires of dawn with dew,
Whose thunderous anger is met anew
With light so bleak it pales the hope
Of those below who can only grope
In Darkness.

*Release your fear, you pain, your guilt,
And welcome life from Him who built
The world for perfect life to live
His radiant Light to truly forgive
Your darkness.*

Your life is lost, no longer filled
Your cheer is trod beneath and willed
To bleed forever, wet and cold,
And thus surrender to the hold
Of Darkness.

*Lift up your hands and raise your eyes
For love has come to sing reprieve
Of joy and peace and kindness through
The path of life that's straight and true
To Light.*

Remember long ago the act
That you performed carefree, then packed
To come to me, your soul enticed
And brought back from the brink of Christ
And Light.

*"My grace is sufficient," the self-same soul
Declared in triumph, completing His role
In paying the price for you and kin
No matter the deed, to bring from sin
To Light.*
